COMMENT OF

Useless Note

The Mossadegh's latest note If in reply to the Churchill-Truman proposals does nothing to encourage hopes of an early settlement of the Anglo-Persian, oil dispute. Mossadegh not only reiterates old propositions already found unacceptable, but sees fit to adopt a takeit-or-leave-it attitude strangely out of keeping with a person who professes to be genuinely anxious to reach an agreement. Today, the dispute has boiled itself down to two issues: whether there payment should followed royalties, arbitration concerning compensation for losses suffered by the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company since nationalisation of the Persian oil industry; and whether agreement should be reached between the AIOC and Persia or between the British and Iranian governments. The rightness or otherwise of nationalisation is no longer a subjectmatter. Nationalisation of the oil industry has been accepted in principle by Britain and recognised as an accomplished fact.

Proposals

London, Sept. 25.

Premier Mohammed Mossadegh today rejected the Churchill-Truman proposals for settling the Anglo-Iranian oil dispute, demanding that Britain accept his own terms, and warned that world peace was at stake.

. In a note whose text was released by Britain, Dr Mossadegh described the Anglo-American proposals as "far more inequitable than previous solutions" and demanded an advance payment from Britain of £49,000,000, specifying that part of this amount must be paid in sterling convertible into dollars.

Dr Mossadegh gave no specific consequences if Britain should reject his terms, but in one section of his 3,000-word note he warned: "In the present circumstances, the Iranian nation may follow one of two roads. Either it must endeavour to improve social conditions and ameliorate the situation for the deprived classes, something that would be impossibe without income from oil, or if this road should remain blocked it should surrender itself to probable future events which would be to the detriment of world peace."

Pooling Of Resources Of Overseas Territories

Strasbourg, Sept. 25.

A bold plan to make the nations of Western Europe independent of dollar aid by developing their overseas territories and pooling their resources, received an overwhelming vote in the 182-member Assembly of the Council of Europe here tonight. The vote was 84 to nil.

Called the "Strasbourg Plan" the scheme calls for:

1. Increased production of raw materials in overseas territories.
2. Use of the resources of all European democratic countries, including those with no Colonial possessions, for this purpose.

annual intercollegiate bridge tournament has bescene, and I for one am heartly in favour of it. A couple of thousand college men and women enter this competition each year, thus practising one of the few intercollegiate sports that they will continue to play when they have finished their studies.

The hand shown today was played by all the students in the first round of this year's tournament. It helped separate the sheep from the goats by singling out the players who were snart enough to let the other fellow do the dirty work.

The play to the first three tricks was almost invariably the same. Dummy took the acc of clubs, and then Bouth took the acc and king of players promptly tackled the anades. hoping to find the jack of spades in the East hand.

The usual method was to lead spade to dummy's king and then inese the ten of spades on the way This plan failed, for West look two spade tricks and a club, after which East was sure to set the contract with his trump trick.

The correct plan was followed by large number of college experts South takes the three diamonds, ending in his own hand, and leads a club. West must take the jack of clubs and continue the suit, where-

South now leads a trump, giving East his queen. At this point East must tackle the spades, since a diamond return would give declarer highly useful ruff, and stuff. When East leads a low apade, South plays low, and West's jack is trapped. West can take his ace of spades, giving South the king and queen; or he can play the jack to force out dummy's king, after which South's. queen-ten are equals.

With Ringstead, Mr Noodt has great opportunity of winning this race, but he is likely to receive strong opposition from Happy Returns and Heliophyte, both of which are capable of giving Ringstend a good fight. World Tin Situation

London, Sept. 25. London tin circles do not expect tin prices to suffer any major setback within the foresceable future. One market authority has esilmated world production of tin metal this year at 155,000 tons and world industrial consumption at 140,000 tons, leaving an ond-of-the-year excess of only 15,000 tons. This excess tonnage is considered much smaller than the tonnage which the United States Government appears willing to take up for stockplling.-Reuter.

Japañese Trade

Many Problems To Be Settled

Tokyo, Sept. 25. Inagaki, former Heitaro Japanese Minister of Commerce and Industry, who arrived in Tokyo today after touring Southeast Asia as head of a goodwill mission, expressed fear that Japan's trade with Southeast Asian countries may throp off, if it is allowed to follow its present course.

Asked about his finding during the mission's six-week tour of India, Pakistan, Ceylon, Thelland, Indonesia and Indo-China, Mr Inagaki said that although Japan has recently concluded trade payment ogreements with Indonesia and Thailand, there still remained many problems to be ironed out if these agreements are to be implemented satisfactorily.

He said: "What I have found out during my on-the-spot inspection tour is that Japan's . trade with Southeast Asian countries may drop off if it is allowed to follow its present

"In order to prevent such on cutcome, it will be necessary for us to re-examing our present trade policy and speedily set up a new pattern of trade relations best suited to the actual conditions of those countrieg."

The former Commerce Minister also stressed the need for Japan to co-operate with the Asian countries in such a way as to help them industrialisa their own nations besides trading with them. "Mr Inagaki said: "In order to make it possible for us to resume normal diplomatic relations with Southeast Asian countries, nothing will be so Ster Ferry 100 9.20 9.30 500 @ 9.20 imperative as a settlement of the reparations

. Vienna, Sept. 25. The British Foreign Secretary, Mr Anthony Eden, said today that he had found a growing feeling of confidence in the countries he had visited on his present European tour.

Mr Eden, who flew here from Yugoslavia on Tuesday for a five-day visit, said that conditions in Austria, which he last visited two years ago, appeared to have much improved and the "people are in much better heart."

Mr Eden was addressing a news conference here. He emphasised that the occupation of Austria was a burden not only for Austria but also for Britain. Reports from a number of reliable sources indicate increased Communist-inspired unrest and other disturbing activity on both sides of India's frontiers with Nepal and Tibet.

In Nepal, currently undergoing a political crisis, the Reds, although outlawed officially as a party, have lately stepped up their activities in the mountain kingdom just across the Indian line.
